January Sermon Series: That's Not in the Bible!

January 13, 20, 27

The Bible gets blamed for a lot of bad theology. Many of these weak ideas are heard in statements like, "It's all part of God's plan" or "God never gives you anything you can't handle." This series will point out several things that are NOT in the Bible, while paying attention to what can be found on the pages of scripture.

That's Not in the Bible

by Dr. R. Glen Miles

There are several popular sayings in our culture that are attributed to the Bible but are not found in the pages of that sacred and holy book. Some are relatively harmless and kind of helpful, too, like Cleanliness is next to Godliness. Being clean is a good thing, isn't it? Others are simply misquotes. For example, Money is the root of all evil most likely comes from misquoting 1 Timothy 6:10. Paul's actual advice to Pastor Tim is, "For the love of money is the root of all evil." Money in this verse is neutral. The love of it is what gets us into trouble. There is a good sermon there!

However, some of these popular sayings that are not found in the Bible are downright harmful and psychologically dangerous. During the month of January, I will examine four of these well-known "verses" in my sermon series, That's Not In the Bible. We will also look at what the Bible does say about each topic.

Here is a preview:

■ Love the sinner, hate the sin. This one seems harmless and maybe even gracious but in between the lines there is a spirit of judgmentalism at work. Many find it easy to use this statement as a way of denigrating the other while (silently) lifting their self to the status of non-sinner. Since Jesus never called anyone a sinner we should follow his example and do the same.

■ God helps those who help themselves. This is almost the exact opposite of the Bible's teachings on helping our neighbors, caring for the least of these and so on. This common saying has its roots in the good old fashioned American ideal of every man and woman for him/herself but it is not biblical.

■ Everything happens for a reason. This idea implies that everything that happens to you is sent by God. It is heard most often in the face of tragedy. This does great damage to ones caught in the turmoil of tragic circumstances.

■ Satan tempted Eve. This one is not so much a popular saying as it is a popular misconception. Satan was not there. A serpent was. The Genesis story doesn't even know about Satan. It will be 500 years before a biblical writer begins to even think about the idea of a devil.

I will look forward to seeing many of you in worship in January as we explore these timely topics. This would be a great series to invite a friend or neighbor to attend.

Grace and peace to you,

Happy NEW Year

by Carla Aday, Senior Associate Minister

My husband came running up the stairs. “Look out the window at the fresh new snow that is falling.” I oohed and awed at the large flakes falling out the bedroom window and then drove down Ward Parkway on my way to church, marveling at the white delicate beauty blanketing the earth. It seems like after growing up in North Dakota, that my husband would no longer get excited about a new snowfall. Why does it still have the ability to take our breath away?

Later that day my stepson, Kyle, and his wife, Carlye, welcomed a newborn baby into their arms. I anxiously await the moment when I will cradle her in my arms. I could hardly wait to receive the call that it was time for us to drive over to Shawnee Mission hospital to meet her for the first time. What is it about newborns – just a few hours old – that is so miraculous?

On January 1, we rang in a new year – 2013. Fireworks, toasts, bells, kisses and music ushered in a new year. Some of us will resolve to eat healthier or exercise more faithfully or try to improve our relationships with each other and the one who created us. What is it about this ritual of a new year that prompts us to start afresh?

New snow, new babies, new years – what is really special there? In the final pages of scripture, God says “See I am making all things new.” (Rev 21:5) So there must be something sacred about the new. God comes, in these ordinary ways, and invites us to a new life.

Happy NEW year to you and yours.

Carla

Creating Daily Peace

by Karla Herrington,

I really had planned to not do the resolution thing this year, but realized there is an area that I would like to work on. As I was rushing around cleaning the other day, I noticed I am a keeper of quotes / spiritual signage/scripture, etc. These words of wisdom can be found on my refrigerator, sitting on shelves, stuffed in books, on bulletin boards, stuffed in the pocket of my purse, etc.

Quotes seem to be everywhere these days and I love to read them for they do bring a moment of peace. But what if I truly brought these words to the surface of my life each day? Could I deepen an inner peace, a peace that sometimes gets lost in the rush of the “to do list” of my day? It occurred to me that in many of my favorite quotes, God might just be whispering something for me to take to heart.

“Worrying does not empty today of its troubles; it empties today of strength.”

“Take time to hear the music before the song is over.”

“Faith is to believe in what we do not see.”

“The best and most beautiful things in the world cannot be seen nor touched, but are felt in the heart.”

“Don’t spend so much time making a living that you forget to make a life.”

“Do not be dismayed, for I am with you. Do not be afraid, for I am your God. I will strengthen you and help you. I will uphold you with my right righteous hand.”

In the New Year, I plan to read this list each day; settle my heart each morning by lifting up my worries to God and reminding myself of God’s presence within. I will choose to let go of unhealthy chattering thoughts and troubled emotions. I can then begin each day with vibrations of peace, and my thoughts and feelings can become only tiny specks that pose no threat to the deep interior stillness that God has for me (and you).

Many blessings in the New Year!

Karla
