COUNTRY CLUB CHRISTIAN CHURCH NEWSLETTER

From the Senior Minister One Year Later

Rev. Carla Aday

A year ago this week, I was buying a new suit to interview for the position of Senior Minister at the church where

I had spent most of my adult life. (In case I needed new clothes to impress you!) My stomach was in knots. I was hopeful and excited. I still feel butterflies as I remember the night the board voted to call me. I was pinching myself and my heart was pounding in my throat!

It has been a whirlwind of a year. After the initial flurry of notes and hugs, we jumped into action. Since I was vacating the position I had held, we needed to “back fill” me before I could begin the new role. (Yes we actually do work here all week, not just on Sundays). After that, we still needed to fill open positions in Mission and Children/Family/Youth. I cannot begin to tell you how proud I am of the staff team that we have built. The Personnel Committee and Congregational Board worked tirelessly with me to find the best of the best to serve us in this new chapter. I know you are thrilled too.

Last September we celebrated “installation” which will remain one of the highlights of my life. I was-profoundly moved by the colleagues and friends who traveled from afar to participate and by the congregation's collective praise of God as we joined hands and hearts to follow Jesus into the future. The cards you sent me sit under my desk in a beautiful box as a constant reminder that I do not serve alone but with you as together we seek to hear God's voice and courageously act out God's radical love.

The biggest change for me has been the "weekly" preaching. Last summer while I was on study leave, I texted my husband to alert him that "there is a Sunday every week." Listening for God through scripture, current events, art, friends, poses a constant challenge but a welcome one. It keeps me awake. Not physically, but spiritually. I seek to speak not my words but words that echo the wisdom of the holy one, a humbling task.

I am thrilled about what is bubbling now in committees. That includes: new ideas about worship, our upcoming 100th anniversary, a renovated youth center and new youth pastor to expand our ministry with teenagers, growing partnerships in Northeast KC, a new transportation strategy to bring older adults to church. In so many ways, we are preparing to welcome our next 500 members. We are creatively reaching out to those who hunger for community and meaning in a world that is increasingly spiritual but not religious. God expects nothing less of us.

Thank you for the privilege of serving here. I treasure it daily. I am honored to serve in God's name. And I deeply value and respect you, both as individuals, and as a community of faith.

Easter Offering Supports Gardening Program

The Grants and Special Offerings team has chosen KC Community Gardens and CEPAD, our partner in Nicaragua to be recipients of this year's Easter offering. Both organizations work to help low income, food insecure individuals and families produce vegetables and fruit from garden plots located in yards, vacant lots and at community sites. Find out more about the work these organizations are doing by visiting their web sites, www.kccg.org and www.cepadnica.org. You can support the Easter offering by placing your check in the collection plate or by sending it to the church office. Please put Easter Offering in the memo line of your check or text the word EASTER and the amount you'd like to contribute to 816-839-9410 and follow the directions. 🍷

Guest Gathering on April 8

Whether you're a new visitor, or you've been attending for a while, we invite you to join us at the next Guest Gathering on Apr. 8 at 10:00 a.m. Learn more about us in a casual setting as a member of our clergy guides you through our values, traditions, and beliefs. Discover ways to connect with our service opportunities, classes, small groups, and of course, our members. RSVP to Barbara George, 816-381-9251. 🍷

Congregational Meeting

A brief Congregational Meeting will be held at the end of each service on Sun., Apr. 8 for the purpose of voting on proposed bylaw changes recommended by the Congregational Board. The changes suggested are two fold: 1) bring the bylaws into alignment with current church practice; and 2) streamline the board and its committees by both reducing their size to reflect current best practice, and by reducing time demands on our volunteer board members. In February, the Board voted unanimously to recommend these changes, submitted by the Governance Review Committee, to the congregation for approval.

You may read the proposed changes at www.cccckc.org/proposed-by-law-changes/. (Paper copies available in the church office) Steve Bough, chairperson of the Governance Review Committee, will answer questions about the proposed changes at a meeting in the church library on Sun., Mar. 25 from 10:00-11:00 a.m.

Leadership Nominations

The process to fill elected positions for the 2018-2019 church year is underway. Your participation is invaluable in identifying a diverse representation of leaders from our congregation. Forms are available in the parlor today or online at www.cccckc.org/leadership-nominations/ Deadline is Apr. 8.

Max Deweese Golf Tournament

Attention all golfers: We are pleased to announce the inaugural Max Deweese Golf Tournament on Fri., Sept. 21, at Swope Memorial Golf Course. From the Beginning...

By Rev. Catherine Stark-Corn, Interim Minister to Youth, Children, and Families

“You had to be here from the beginning,” I chastise my husband as he walks in half way through a show I am watching. He immediately says this doesn’t make sense. He asks questions that show he is a bit lost and in an effort to hush him I simply say, “It won’t fully make sense to you because you are only seeing one part of it.”

As I prepare for Holy Week getting excited about the Pastors’ Class baptisms and the palm parade with shouts of hosanna – I often want to hurry past the other Holy Week events and get to Easter morning. The mystery of Easter is celebrated here with such beautiful flowers, amazing music, greetings of Happy Easter from many people – a truly joyous celebration. Yet as I have gotten older I have come to recognize the necessity of the full sequence of events that lead us to the morning where we celebrate new life.

One of my seminary professors often said you cannot have true joy without experiencing some suffering. I remember at the time really struggling with that – trying to stand in what she saw as the difference between happiness and joy. In recent years I have had a bit more sadness and dare I say some personal suffering with the loss of both of my parents, and the words of my professor have more meaning and reality for me now. I now see how sweet is the joy of a special celebration with family; how real is the joy when one of my son beams from an accomplishment; how deep is the joy to feel unconditional love.

So too we must follow this pattern of living into the fullness of all the events of Holy Week. As our hosannas turn to quiet moments as we embrace the sadness of Maundy Thursday when Jesus shared with the disciples how he knew the end of his earthly time was nearing. And then the dark loneliness of Good Friday when we confront the suffering, pain, and deep injustice that still lives on in our world today. But the story does not end there, as Christians we receive the deep, grace-filled love showered on us by our God as we raise up our alleluias on Easter morning.

We must live through the full Christ event in order to be lifted up by the joy of Easter. In other words, you have to be there from the beginning for it all to make sense. 🍷

Adult Classes and Group Fellowship Opportunities

Rethinking the Lord's Prayer

Led by Mike Graves. Mondays, Apr. 16, 23, 30, 7:00 p.m. Scholars in the area of worship note that even when we go through the motions on Sundays, it's ok because the motions go through us.

The Lord's Prayer could be a good example since it's easy to mumble our way through, not paying attention to its meaning. In this three-week class, we will look more closely at this beloved prayer Jesus gave us, line by line. It might make a difference the next time we pray it.

Becoming True Neighbors

By Paul Cutelli, Director of Technology

Ever since I was old enough to think about history, I have wondered why humankind continues to perpetuate a seemingly endless cycle of harm, help, and then a blissful return to the status quo not really addressing the issues that caused harm in the first place. A tragedy strikes, we rally to assist those effected, and then time and time again, once we start to feel good about the aid rendered, we fall back into the complacency of everyday life (See: Haiti, all the issues they still are dealing with post-earthquake from 2010). Society rarely gets the opportunity to enact a real change that could have an enduring effect, something that doesn't just put the proverbial bandage on the un-healing wound. That is why this new student-led movement growing from Parkland, Florida, has caught my attention.

These students from South Florida have been through a terrible experience, one that I hope never transpires anywhere else ever again. Instead of letting the trauma fade away and be yet another "bandage" scenario, they are telling us that they feel something is wrong, something ought to be done to fix it.

It is quite refreshing as a person who believes in the importance of both empathy and civics that these youth are encouraging us to find a way to break the repetition of pain, recovery, and forgetfulness. In a time where it is easy to disconnect from society with smart phones and computers, these students are putting themselves squarely in the public eye with their activism, making sure their voices are heard. It gives me a great hope for the future of the nation and our democratic values.

Yet what can we, the adults, take from this movement? Regardless of the politics involved, perhaps you can agree with me that we should follow the example of the Parkland students and try to break the status quo, stop acting like the hurt/help cycle is acceptable, and begin to listen to each other. Let's have conversations about pains, past and present, no matter how hard those conversations might be, and try to suture the wounds that were created. Through a rational, empathetic, and cathartic discussion, I believe we can break this loop and begin to be true neighbors to each other. ☞
